INDEPENDENT.

JOURNALMAN PRINTERS.

Mr. Editor:—The hastily prepared sketch of the Massillon newspaper press, which appeared in the Independent of two weeks ago, has called up other reminiscences of the long-ignored, long forgotten, long gone past, and brings up the names of two journeymen printers, one of whom was well known to yourself.

After Allen & Townsend had dissolved their partnership, referred to in the former article, a young Welshman, by the name of Charles Thomas Sanderson, came here and went to work on the paper. He was a man of fine education, at the head of his profession as a printer, and withal, handled a trenchant pen. The old files of the Massillon Gazette, could they be found, would show some of his fine efforts at poetry, one of which, Cambrian Land, is well remembered by the writer.

During the winter that he was here, the votaries of Thespis—Massillon then fostered the legitimate drama—got up a society, at the meetings of which was presented comedy, tragedy, farce, burletta, and other things of the sort. The plays of Kotzebue; the tragedy of Bertram, by Maturin, Capt. Allen playing Bertram, and one of our esteemed citizens yet living, playing Lord Aldebrand, She Stoops to Conquer, by Goldsmith; Capt. Allen playing Hardecastle, and Sanderson playing Tony Lumpkins. Those who were present will never forget his admirable conception of the character and the very positive talent he exhibited in presenting it.

Mr. Sanderson remained here until the waning fortunes of the old Gazette admonished him that he must look elsewhere for work and pay, a combination exceedingly necessary, for a jour printer having no resources, and he started for what was then the boundless west. After a few months he wrote to your correspondent, dating and mailing his letter at Indianapolis, coming by the usual post routes, the letter was about twelve days on the way. He had been out upon the broad prairies, which to a mind like his, gave inspiration to his poetic genius, and in his letter he gave full scope to his imagination, as it lingers now in the meshes of my memory, I regarded equal to the best of those of Montague, Chesterfield, or Swift.

The next heard of him was the following sentence in a letter from Capt. Allen, dated Cincinnati:

"Yesterday the mail from New Orleans brought me the sad intelligence of the death of my poor, misguided friend, Charles Thomas Sanderson. He died of cholera, and like a noxious carcass, unfit longer to remain above ground, was hurried into the earth and barely covered, no stone to mark his last resting place."

Mr. Sanderson was a most remarkable man, and could he have abstained from the inordinate use of whisky, in which he excelled, he would have been of the best type of mankind. It is sad to write, he died a drunkard.

Another remarkable man connected with the newspaper press in this city, when journalism and the city were all young, was Abijah Woodruff Baker, known all over Ohio as Bijie Baker. He came here from Columbiana county when quite young, and worked on the old Gazette, was a brilliant, ready writer, and fair workman. From the day he first came to Massillon until his death, which occurred some fifteen years later, he was scarcely ever sober. He, at sometime between 1831 and 1836, went to Indiana with Sam Pike, and at Peru, Miami county, started the Peru, Forrester. If I am not mistaken Peru was on an Indian reservation, which was in possession of a tribe of whom Godfrey was the chief. He (G) took six copies of the paper but could not read a word. Pike & Baker kept the Forrester in motion for a short time, and then sold out and came back to Ohio, Baker coming into this county, and working here and at Canton. He then went wherever he could work or get a character to write on the columns of any paper or magazine. The politics of the paper made little difference with him. He was equally familiar with the history of the country and of the parties—then the old Whig and Democratic. If he could get his whisky he made little inquiry. In 1841, when every body became stirred up on the subject of liquor drinking, Baker was reached by the influences that were at work everywhere, and in this town united with the Washingtonians, signed the pledge, and went about doing good as a temperance convert. In those days, one of the elements of a good lecturer, was to have been an incorrigible drunkard; as Baker had all the qualifications that such a fact could give, he, of course, was listened to with attention and interest. But it was with his pen that he excelled, and certainly, he had but few equals, as the editor of a temperance paper, whether it was here or at Canton, that he conducted it I cannot remember. He did not last as a reformed drunkard, but soon dropped into his old habits and continued indulging them, and never again reformed. In 1846, when a call was made for volunteers, he enlisted here in Co. A 3d Ohio volunteers, Capt. James Allen and Col. S. R. Curtiss.

The regiment marched to Matamoros, Mexico, and did camp duty for one year, the full period of its enlistment, and came home, and Baker returned. When the order was issued from the war office, for the raising of the 15th regiment, which was organized under Col. Geo. W. Morgan, now member of congress from the Mt. Vernon district, Baker contrived somehow to go with the regiment, and never returned. He died, and was buried on the bank of the Brazos, and with him went one of the most brilliant intellects of the day. His downfall was like that of poor Sanderson.

On one occasion, well recollected, wishing to see him, the writer found him at the Commercial Inn, in this city, engaged with a stranger in discussing the merits of the Catholic Father, St. Augustine, with the writings of whom, in the original, both were surprisingly familiar. From St. Augustine, Longinus, and Homer were taken up, and the conversation lasted far into the night. On seeing Mr. Waring the next day—that being the name of the stranger—he remarked, that the drunken printer was more familiar with the classics than most men. His unfortunate love for whisky was his ruin. If any person in this city, or elsewhere, has an old file of the Massillon paper, of February 1842, containing his first article after signing the Washingtonian pledge, it will bear reproducing over and over.

The New York dailies caught it up and gave it their widest circulation. With a sketch of himself he included Sam Pike, and the Peru Forester, which made a most laughable description. Poor Bijie Baker's history, however, so far as whisky is concerned, is but that of the best minds in the length and breadth of the land. "Wisdom crieth out, but no one regardeth her." R. H. F.

FOOD FOR THINKERS AND WORKERS.

The Phrenological Journal says: Those who expect to think should not eat much food which simply produces warmth and fat, such as ham, fat pork, white bread, butter, rice, tapioca, and starch. These contain very little phosphoric food, being chiefly carbonaceous. Prof. Agassiz says, "Fish enters largely into the requisition of the human system, especially after intellectual fatigue. There is no other article of food that supplies the waste of the head so thoroughly as fish diet. Fish contains phosphorus to a large extent, a chemical element which the brain requires for growth and life. He would not say that exclusive use of fish would make a blockhead a wise man, but that the brain would not be wanting in one of its essential elements." Man cannot, however, live on fish alone, because most fish are not fat enough to furnish the heat-producing element in sufficient quantity. The amount of phosphate or brain support, porting food contained in the flesh of animals, is in proportion to the activity of that animal; those of great activity, such as the canary bird, for instance, secure food which feed brain, nerve and muscle, but does not produce fat. The flesh of the trout, the pickerel, or salmon, impart more mental and physical vigor to the eater than the flesh of comparatively dormant fish, like the eel and flounder. The flesh of wild animals, such as the bison, deer, or bear, promote activity in the eater more than the stall fed ox, or sheep, or hog. Wild game generally is considered the better food, especially for the convalescent, than the fattened domestic turkey or goose. Barley, oats, and wheat ground without bolting furnish food for brain; but lawyers, ministers, and students eat the white, superfine, or bolted wheat bread and go to sleep. That which would fatten a pig and give him no desire to exercise or think is eaten by the learned and refined of the human race, who look in pity upon the poor peasant following the plow, because he is obliged to eat his brown loaf, which brown loaf and cheap fish, and wild game contain the incentive to brain work, in which poems, orations, and art are conceived and nursed. The proper food for laboring men—we mean those who have to exercise muscular strength chiefly—should be that which contains the greatest amount of nitrogen. Among these articles barley and cheese stand high. The red flesh of the ox or sheep and unbolted bread are among the leading articles. Men who train prize fighters seem to understand much better than others how to build up physical strength and endurance. When their battle and their race is ended they lay aside their unbolted bread and trout, their lean beef and mutton, and fall into their old habits of liquor drinking and of eating starch bearing articles, such as rice, fine bread, pudding with fat meat and butter, and they become as fat and lazy as these carbonaceous articles can make them.

SOME OF THE EFFECTS OF STRONG DRINK.

Nine tenths of all the licentiousness which curses society is perpetrated under the inflammatory influence of ardent spirit. Acting especially on the base of the brain, where the organs of the animal passions are located, alcoholic stimulants work out their baleful influence chiefly through the passions. It careful note be taken of the great crimes against the person which command the cognizance of the courts, it will be found that most of the culprits committed their offenses when intoxicated. It is notorious that the inmates of the dens of shame are habitual drinkers, and nine tenths of the patrons and companions in lewdness are temporarily, if not constantly, under the influence of stimulants. The police reports of all cities indicate that rows, riots and bloody affrays, resulting in man slaughter and murder, as well as crimes against decency, are perpetrated by persons who are intoxicated. If a rare exception occurs it is the wonder of all. We may rise higher; enter political conventions and halls of legislation, and it will be found that the dissensions, trifles, and disgraceful, if not traitorous, transactions frequently occurring, grow out of the same fountain of evil alcoholic stimulants.

Every propensity of man's mental nature, every feeling, the perverted action of which leads to excess and crime, is not only warped and prevented, but temporarily doubted in its activity and power, by the use of stimulants. Many thousands of men who, when sober, are self-regarded, just, amiable and excellent fathers, friends and citizens, become quarrelsome, dangerous and fiendish by the maddening influence of ardent spirits.

As the organs of the animal propensities are more intimately related to the body than those of the higher mental powers, the use of stimulants tends to augment the force of these propensities, and by excess of action to drive them directly to abuse and perversion while the reason, memory, skill, taste, prudence, ambition, moral and religious sentiments are misdirected, clouded and benumbed. We have known honest men, who, when under the influence of liquor, would lie and take every dishonorable method to obtain money, in order to carry out their maudlin purposes, but who, when sober, would scorn a lie or dishonorable act. Who has not seen kind and benevolent men who when disguised by liquor, seemed callous to every sentiment of kindness. The soundest reason, the sharpest perception, and the clearest memory become clouded by stimulants until the unhappy victim is unable to manage his affairs or reason correctly on any subject. Moreover, every socialist is severely by intemperance—not in every case but in myriads of cases. The fair and loving wife and prattling babe, who are the pleasure and pride of the husband and father, become the objects and victims of his hate and murder when his brain is fired by stimulants. Many such a man has awakened from a drunken condition in a felon's cell, and been horrified when informed that he had slain his wife and child. If this state is not one of insanity it is akin to it, with the crime of intemperance added.

The setting on fire of the passions, and blinding all the higher feelings, degrades all that is Godlike in a man, and makes him more brutish than a beast. It is sometimes asserted that some men cannot make a speech, or any other great and successful mental effort, until they are aroused and stimulated by strong drink. Men may become so accustomed to the use of alcoholic liquors as to require a large amount to arouse them to effort. The same is equally true of those who use opium, morphine or arsenic. But who thinks the poisoning of a person by arsenic or morphine a proper or desirable mode of whipping the faculties into action? Who does not know that the slave to opium or arsenic is using up his whole life force, and will soon break down his abused constitution and die by poison? Does not the very common yet awful disease called delirium tremens settle the question as to the dire effects upon mind and body of alcoholic stimulants? Is delirium tremens a more reputable or less terrible death than that produced by the poison of opium or arsenic? Who would not prefer to see a loved friend if he must die an untimely death, glide into the dreamy elysium of the opium eater, until conscience is smothered in the silence of death, than to witness the mental agony of one whose brain, all on fire with stimulants, sees monstrous specters which seem to the victim to bite and devour him? This is insanity intensified—a consciousness 6 times magnified in its capacity for suffering, having all the pains of the martyr at the stake with none of the martyr's consolations. Dante's "Inferno" pictures no worse tortures than such a brain recognizes in rapid review and makes them all its own, until wearied nature releases its unhappy grasp of life, and the terrified spirit is launched upon the unseen and eternal.—Herald of Health.

HOW MOSQUITOES BITE.

The mosquito has a proboscis like an elephant, only not so large. It will, however, look nearly as large under a good microscope. He cannot do as many handy things with it as the elephant can with his, but he can cause a great deal of annoyance in a small way with it. It is hardly the thing to say a mosquito bites us, for he has no teeth.

The microscope reveals the fact that he carries a pair of scissors in side of his proboscis—the nearest and sharpest little cutting tools you ever saw. He gets his living by these. They are two delicate blades, and are placed alongside each other. When he is ready to make a meal off us, he first buzzes around with those beautiful wings and sings a pleasant song. If we let him quietly settle down, he picks out a place on our skin which is just to his liking. He is very delicate about it. When he gets ready he puts his proboscis down, pushes the little scissors out. Then he drinks as much blood as he wants, and is done his dinner. But he does not leave yet. He is going to pay his bill. He has taken our blood and he is going to leave us something in exchange for it.

With all his faults, he is an honest fellow—after his fashion. He has the pay in his pocket, all ready to squeeze out before he goes. It is poison, but that makes no difference to him. It is the best he can give us. His poison packet is at the lower end of his proboscis, at the head of his proboscis he has another packet; into which he puts poison enough for one dose. This poison is very powerful. A very little makes the place where the mosquito puts it very sore. After he has sucked our blood he puts the drop of poison into the place he took the blood from. It is not the bite or cut that the mosquito makes that hurts us, but the dropping of this powerful poison into our flesh. If this mosquito were large enough to give a powerful dose of this poison, it would be bad for us. If he were as big as a kitten, and his poison as strong in proportion, a bite from him would kill us.

COST OF FENCES.

Few people have a correct idea of the cost of building a fence, and many are astonished at the continued agitation upon the subject of a Fence or no Fence law. An Illinois agricultural report says on the subject: The fences of the United States have cost more than the houses, cities included, more than the ships, boats and vessels of every description which sail the ocean, and lakes and rivers; more than our manufactures of all kinds, with their machinery; more than any one class of property, aside from real estate, unless it be the railroads of our country.

Singular as the statement may appear, it is undoubtedly true. It is said that while the improved lands of South Carolina are worth $20,000,000, the fences which inclose them cost $10,000,000, and the annual tax for repairs amount to $100,000. In New York the fences have cost land owners $144,000,000; in Ohio, $115,000,000; and thirty years ago, according to an estimate then made by Nicholas Biddle, the Pennsylvania fences had already cost more than $100,000,000. Throughout the United States fences have consumed $1,300,000,000 of the capital of the country. The publication of these facts will increase public sentiment against Fence law. They show that the American people understand very little about agricultural economy; and, as the Missouri Republican remarks, "The time will come—in the next century, perhaps—when outside of towns and cities a fence will almost be a curiosity. Hedges will

LOCAL MATTERS.

The consecration of St. Philip's & James' church, at Canal Fulton, will take place on Sunday the 23d inst. Rev. Rev. T. B. Bishop of Covington, assisted by a large number of the clergy, will perform the ceremony. The Massillon music bands, together with St. Mary's choir, will be present to increase the solemnity.

Rev. N. Kerner, Pastor of St. Philip's and James' church at Canal Fulton.

We regret to make a note of the fact, but are requested to state that Prof. Atwater will preach at the Disciples church of this place next Sunday, at the usual hours, for the last time. At this writing we know not what his calculations are, but suppose he will go elsewhere—perhaps to some place in New York state—as it is intimated that he has been invited to do so. During his brief sojourn here Prof. A. has made many friends, and all who have had the pleasure of listening to his ministrations, whether agreeing with him or not, will learn with regret that he is to be with us no more. Whenever he goes he will find hosts of friends, for while his style of preaching challenges the attention of the most indifferent, his agreeable, affable manner in private life will win the favorable opinion of all with whom he may come in contact.

We are indebted to a visitor at the pleasant party held last Thursday, at Mineral Springs by the M. E. School, and friends, for a brief account of the doings of the day. Engagements at the office prevented attendance at the time and place, which we much regret, especially after the cordial invitation extended.

Hon. J. A. Garfield has favored us with a beautifully printed copy of his oration on the life and character of the late Gen. G. H. Thomas.

Mr. Hart, a young gentleman from Trumbull county, we are informed, is about to open a law office in this place. Men of that profession are not so numerous here as they are in many smaller towns in the country.

Messrs. John E. McLain and Joseph Coleman will leave this place on Monday next for California. Mr. McLain has been there several times, for he went there before the railroad was completed and has been there three times since—on business. Mr. Coleman goes to see the sights, of which there is no lack.

The enterprising proprietors of the American Stock Journal propose to send the twelve numbers for this year for $1, the regular subscription, and in addition there is one dollar's worth of books and four valuable manuals devoted to stock raising. Cheap enough for anybody. M. P. Boyer & Co., Parksburg Pa.

Among the prompt paying advertisers in our list of patrons are the Lrs. Oldsline, of Pittsburg, Pa. They are always on time.

To the efficient ticket agent, F. R. Myers, of Pittsburgh, we are under obligations for his pass on the P. & C. Road. We have ever found him to be the right man in the right place.

On last Sunday a Mrs. Braden, of this place attempted to commit suicide by taking laudanum. Immediately after swallowing a large dose, nearly an ounce, the fact was discovered. Dr. Gerould was forthwith sent for and succeeded in saving her life. The patient is getting along as well as could be expected. It is said the rash act was in consequence of abuse received from her husband when intoxicated. Another evidence of the abusive influence of drunkenness by spirituous liquors. That woman, as well as many others should have liberal compensation from some one or more offending groggeller.

A rather awkward rendering was made in the line quoted by our correspondent Progress, in last week's issue, where our type made the poet say, "Whose body nowhere is, instead of, Whose body nature is. In this connection we may as well say that the thoughts expressed in the article above referred to have elicited no little interest, in consequence of their boldness in pursuing a different track from that ordinarily followed by writers and speakers on the subject discussed. It is a safe maxim, we are persuaded, to adopt the suggestion that error of opinion may be tolerated as long as freedom of utterance is left to combat it. If our correspondent is deemed wrong in his positions we shall most willingly publish dissenting opinions, and leave an intelligent public to judge of the merits of the diverse views. Where men differ on radical grounds who is to sit in judgement? Pope in his Universal prayer says—

Let not this weak, unknowing hand,
Presume thy bolts to throw,
And dash confusion round the land,
On each I judge thy foe.

We expect to publish more of the productions of the same writer soon, in which he will take up other points for consideration. The thoughtful reader will at once see that Progress, so far as he has gone, is a cautious examiner of the questions he discusses, and for that reason his productions are to be carefully read in order to be appreciated.

School committees, trustees, superintendents, and all having charge of schools in any way, will find a vast amount of information on that subject in an elegantly printed volume of 114 pages, just issued by J. W. Schermerhorn & Co., N. Y. Every possible want about seats of learning can be met by applying to the before named firm. A copy of this school Manual is at this office.

Leff's Illustrated Mechanical News is a new candidate for public attention, recently commenced by Jas Leffell & Co., Springfield, O. It is finely printed, liberally illustrated, and ably conducted monthly. For mechanics of all classes this paper will be an advantage, as its pages are exclusively devoted to all branches of mechanical sciences. The July number is especially attractive. 30 cents a year.

The people of Salem were, on last Saturday, to vote on the question of having a park. At this writing we have not learned the result, but the probability is, the park project has carried. It is proposed to appropriate the square in the center of which stands the ancient Orthodox Friends meeting house, as it seems now to have almost or quite gone out of use. The location is a fine one for that purpose.

We learn that P. G. Albright has disposed of the frame building on the corner of Erie and North streets, to Messrs. St John & Long and H. K. Dickey & Co. who will see to work immediately to put the same in order for the manufacture of Soap and candles, from which they will, so George says, turn out only first class goods, and at low figures as can be furnished from any place in the country. He ought to know. From the practical knowledge of St John & Long and the business character of H. K. D. & Co., we feel sure they will make it a success, and take pleasure in recording this addition to our manufacturing interest which we wish deserved success.

The extreme heat of last Sunday during the fore part and middle of the day was followed by a thunder storm, high wind and heavy shower of rain. Trees were blown down and blinds broken off by the violence of the storm.

Bricklayers commenced work Monday morning to put up the walls of the new gas works. It is to be twice the capacity of the one in use, and will provide enough gas for the increased needs of the place, including street lights.

We notice that the Massillon Brick Co. have a new sign up near the road house, in the shape of a large hand, indicating the articles the company has for sale.

In the chapter of bloody accidents which occurred last week we may mention that on last Friday one of the trains going east rushed upon and killed two cows. It is said at the same moment, one on each side of the track, at the crossing of Main st in West Massillon.

Mr. John Nohr, a laboring man at one of the furnaces, probably aged about 30 years, died rather suddenly on the 12th inst. He overexerted himself at work, and incautiously drank too much cold water, which brought on a chill resulting in death.

It is with pleasure that we insert the note stating the fact that Messrs. St John & Long of Fulton, have made arrangements to come to this place and engage in the manufacture of soap. They are represented as skillful, ingenious men in their business, and will be welcomed here by all our people.

Bro. Vernon of the Salem Journal has been enlarging his paper, and now it is of being neighbor like in size—that is, having eight columns on a page in which to do up things at home and elsewhere.

That elegantly printed and well conducted weekly paper, Appleton's Journal, of New York, commences a new story, Good bye, Sweetheart, the production of a lady writer of eminent ability in popular literature. Her previous productions have won a reputation for the author in consequence of the vivacity, animation and naturalness of style which pervade their pages. This new series opens as brightly as its title indicates that it should, to secure admiration.

MAN KILLED.—On last Thursday Mr. John Craig, at Paul's quarry, who has for several years been connected with the large stone works near this place, was accidentally thrown from a flat. A bolt that reached below the car or flat mangled his body but no wheels passed over him. The wounds were of so fatal a character that he died a few hours after the occurrence. Mr. C. was a man of much more than ordinary intelligence, a native of Great Britain, about 35 years of age, and was prominent among the operatives at the quarries. His place will be hard to fill.

From what we learn Sunday the 6th inst. was the hottest day of the season, the mercury rising to 96 in the shade. The heat here and elsewhere has been followed by severe storms in many localities, and considerable damage has resulted therefrom.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT FROM SUNSTROKE.—On Wednesday morning last, as Mr. Peter Koontz was at work erecting a frame building, he became unconscious, and fell from the second story into the cellar, striking on the side of his head and neck, which were badly bruised, blood flowing freely from the ear. The fall of seventeen feet would doubtless have proven fatal had it not been partially relieved by a joist which broke from the weight of the falling man. Dr. Gerould was called, and from present indications, Mr. K. will soon be able to be about. A presentment—Twice the night preceding the accident, Mr. Koontz had dreamed of falling from the building.

G. G. GRADY'S GREAT AMERICAN CIRCUS will exhibit in this place, as may be seen by notice elsewhere, on next Saturday. From the flattering notices of the press, where this show has been exhibited, the inference is obvious that it is among the first of its class in presenting amusement for the people. Star performers lead in the different department of the exhibition, and appear prepared to gratify a taste and amuse all who witness their feats of skill. In addition to the ordinary performances of this class is that of a balloon ascension—a not a mere paper concern, but a real tough and sure elevator. Prof. Torres appears to be a skilled aeronaut, and in addition to his competency as a sailer heavenward, he has the tenacity to perform the hazardous feat of the acrobat away up in the air where eagles and other high flyers may venture with safety. If he can't call out a crowd, wonder who can? At Dayton his balloon took fire and it would seem that he was agoner, but his presence of mind was equal to the emergency—he continued his trapeze diversions, and in descending caught the limb of a tree and thus saved his life.

Dr. Watson has at his drug store a quantity of large, luscious Black Hamburg grapes, fully ripe, and very attractive in appearance. They are the first grapes of the season—but this is nothing new for the doctor. He has been raising choice early fruits for many years.

A cheap street preacher, who is well qualified for his mission, having a loud voice, and is untiring in his work, gave such of our city as choose to hear him, a long, rambling discourse at Richman's corner, on yesterday. He is a stranger here, at least to most of our people, but acts somewhat like Bishop Stevenson, who dispenses a free gospel wherever he goes.

ATTENTION! 104 O. V. L.—There will be a preliminary meeting of the members of the 194 Regt. O. V. L., at McLain's Hall, Massillon, on Thursday July 27th 7 o'clock P. M., to complete arrangements for the coming reunion which is to take place in Massillon on Friday September 8th 1871. A full attendance of the members of Massillon and vicinity is respectfully requested.

Acquainted with the small craft disposed of with the wave on the raging canal but no engagement is on the tapis.

The Turf—Mike Young owner of "Sole Leather Dick" reclines on his laurels, and the backers of "Sandstone Tom" pant for a proposition.

Edenburgh—Sandy young gents with broad leaders have executed some tall walking, and came back in tolerable time, with a small report of woodcock.

These items are contributed by an expert who whizzes with the quill, leaps with the goulda, strides with the pedestrian, popular with the tourist, and sympathizes with the defeat of the breech leaders, always ready to report the achievements of either branch of the sports.

MARRIED.—By Rev. J. C. Klar at his residence, July 12, Mr. John Kline and Miss Catherine A. Leighey, all of Stark Co.

DIED.—July 15th Eliza Russe, age, 64 years, 10 months and 6 days. She was confined to her bed 10 years 10 months and 13 days. The children return their heartfelt thanks to the kind friends who nobly assisted them in their affliction.

7-30 GOLD LOAN

OF THE

Northern Pacific Railroad.

Rapid Progress of the Work

The building of the Northern Pacific Railroad, (begun July last), is being pushed forward with great energy from both extremities of the line. Several thousand men are at work in Minnesota and on the Pacific coast. The grade is nearly completed 260 miles westward from Lake Superior; trains are running over 120 miles of finished road, and track laying is rapidly progressing toward the eastern border of Dakota. Including its purchase of the St. Paul & Northern Pacific Railroad Company now has 412 miles of completed road, and by September next this will be increased to at least 550.

A Good Investment.—Jay Cooke & Co., are now selling, and unhesitatingly recommend, as a profitable and perfectly safe investment, the first mortgage land grant gold bonds of the Northern Pacific Railroad company. They have 30 years to run, bear seven and three tenths per cent gold interest (more than 8 per cent currency) and are secured by first and only mortgage on the entire road and its equipments, and also as fast as the road is completed on 23,000 Acres of Land to every mile of track, or 500 acres for each $1000 bond. They are exempt from U. S. tax; principal and interest are payable in gold. Denominations: Coupons, $100 to $1000; Registered, $100 to $1000.

Lands for Bonds.—Northern Pacific 7-30s are at all times receivable at ten cent above par, in exchange for company's lands, at their lowest cash price. This renders them practically interest bearing land warrants.

Sinking Fund.—The proceeds of all sales of lands are required to be devoted to the re-purchase and cancellation of the first mortgage bonds of the company. The land grant of the road exceeds fifty million acres. This immense sinking fund will undoubtedly cover the principal of the company's bonded debt before it falls due. With their ample security and high rate of interest, there is no investment accessible to the people, which is more profitable or safe.

Exchanging U S Five-Twenties.

The success of the new government five per cent loan will compel the early surrender of the 6 per cents. Many holders of five twenties are now exchanging them for Northern Pacific Seven-Thirties, thus realizing a handsome profit, and greatly increasing their yearly income.

Other Securities.—All marketable stocks and bonds will be received at their highest current price in exchange for Northern Pacific securities. Express charges on money or bonds received, and on seven-thirties sent in return, will be paid by the financial agents. Full information, maps, pamphlets, etc., can be obtained on application at any agency, or from the undersigned, JAY COOKE & CO., Philadelphia, New York, Washington, Financial Agents, Northern Pacific R R Co J. F. C. PRATT, Gen'l Agt.

Kinder is the looking glass than the wine glass; for the former reveals our defect to ourselves only—the latter to our friends.

Some one suggests that the best way to train up a child in the way he should go, is for the person to travel that way occasionally himself.

'Some people,' writes O. W. Holmes, 'look upon truth as an invalid, who can only take the air in a close carriage, with a gentleman in a black coat on the box.'

One of the clergymen in Portland, Me., took for his text last Sunday afternoon a slip of woodbine, just budding with leaf, which he displayed from the pulpit.

The fortune of Miss Hardett Counts, who was recently raised to the peerage, is estimated at $50,000,000. She has given to charitable purposes not less than $50,000,000.

Mrs. M. C. Gaines declares, it is said, that more than 100 lawyers who were opposed to her protracted suits, seven committed suicide, and fifty-six drank themselves to death.

A couple of sensible young ladies in Maine have collected quite a handsome sum of money from the townspeople, and invested the same in shade trees for the principal streets.

A young doctor, on being asked to contribute towards inclosing and ornamenting the village cemetery, very coolly remarked that if he filled it he should lose his part.

A ten year miss told her mother the other day that she was never going to marry, but meant to be a widow, because widows dress in such nice black, and always looked very happy.

To Clean Carpets.—Mrs. W. D. R. writes as that salt sprinkled upon the carpet before sweeping will make it look bright and clean. This is also a good preventive against moths.

Mr. Buster is an opponent of free schools from "principle." He goes "agin education," not because of its unconstitutionality, but because it's unnatural. Ignorance is "nature," he says. We are born ignorant, and ought to keep so.

In Thompson's Gazetteer is the following erratum: "For Dutchman read Dr. Adams." This is almost equal to the well known correction, "For dum squizzle read permanent," or the amusing erratum in a Hartford paper, "For Alum Water read Alma Mater."

An old soldier, having been brought up to vote at an election at the expense of one of the candidates, voted for his opponent, and when reproached for his conduct, replied, "Always quarter upon the enemy, my lads; always quarter upon the enemy!"

To mend Tin or Iron Ware.—Leaky tin or iron ware is easily mended by hammering a small nail or tack of soft lead, fit the hole, cut off each side, and rivet it down. Rivets of soft lead or other metal may be used to mend iron kettles, etc.

Cement for Iron and Stone.—Glycerine and litharge, stirred to a paste, hardens rapidly, and makes a suitable cement for iron upon iron, for two stone surfaces, and especially for fastening iron to stone. The cement is insoluble, and is not attacked by strong acids.

Indelible Ink.—By placing a piece of caustic in the end of a quill, and whittling the side to a point, any cloth, being first slightly damp with water, may be written on so indelibly that no art can remove the color.

Ball one pound of powdered sulphur in two quarts of water for half an hour. Apply with a brush while still warm, and you will prevent the damp and unwholesome oozing from the brick walls of your workshops.

A cheap paint may be made for out buildings, that will last for years, by taking milk and cement or water lime, as some call it, mix and apply with a brush; any dry color may be added. This will last for years, a building will look as well as if painted with oil paint. To put this on, the paint should be stirred constantly, as the finer parts will soon be all used, and at last you will have nothing but sand.

Paste that will keep a year.—Dissolve a teaspoonful of alum in a quart of warm water. When cold, stir in flour to give it the consistency of thick cream, being particular to beat up all the lumps. Stir in as much powdered rosin as will lay on a silver dime, and throw in half a dozen cloves. Have on the fire a teaspoonful of boiling water; pour the flour mixture into it, stirring well all the time. In a few minutes, it will be the consistency of mush. Pour it into an earthen or china vessel; let it cool; lay a cover on, and put it in a cool place. When needed for use, take out a portion and soften it with warm water.

Of all painful things can there be any so exasperatingly painful as a bone felon? We know of none that flesh is heir to, and as this malady is quite frequent and the subject of much earnest consideration, we give the latest recipe for its cure, which is given by that high authority, the London Lancet. "As soon as the disease is felt, put directly over the spot a fly blister, and let the same of your thumb nail, and let remain x hours, at the expiration of which time, directly under the surface of the blister, may be seen the felon, which can instantly be taken out with the point of a needle or a lancet."

Dr. J. LONG.
Eclectic Physician,
Has located himself at Massillon, O., for the treatment of Female & Chronic Diseases.

Office east of the Park, second door of Mr. Falke's new building.
All consultations and examinations of patients made free of charge.
Dr. Long examines and explains your disease without asking any questions. If he understands your case you know it, and cannot be deceived. If he cannot tell your disease, and how you feel without asking questions he does not consider himself competent to treat your case. This is the criterion to go by, and patients should not be satisfied with any other. This is the only direct and positive evidence of my ability as a scientific physician, and by this standard I am willing to be judged.

A proper diagnosis of local disease, without constitutional symptoms, that is, not affecting the system generally, must depend upon the judgement of both patient and physician.
Give Dr. Long a call, and satisfy yourself whether he understands your case sufficiently well to treat them successfully. Dr. Long may be consulted in the German and English languages. Address letters, JAMES LONG, M. D., Massillon, Ohio.

MONEY CANNOT BUY IT!
For Sight is Priceless.
THE DIAMOND SPECTACLES.
WILL PRESERVE IT.

The Diamond Glasses,
Manufactured by
J. E. Spencer & Co., N. Y.
Which are now offered to the public, are pronounced by all the celebrated Opticians of the World to be the Most Perfect, Natural, Artificial help to the human eye ever known.

They are ground under their own supervision, from minute Crystal, Rabbits' melted together, and derive their name, "Diamond," on account of their hardness and brilliancy.

THE SCIENTIFIC PRINCIPLE on which they are constructed brings the core or center of the lens directly in front of the eye, producing a clear and distinct vision, and pleasant sensations, such as glimmering and wavering of sight, dizziness, &c., peculiar to all others in use.

They are mounted in the Finest Manner in frames of the best quality, of all materials used for that purpose.

Their Finish and Durability cannot be surpassed.
CAUTION—None genuine unless bearing their trade mark stamped on every frame.
JOSEPH COLEMAN,
Jeweler and Optician, sole agent for Massillon, Ohio.
From whom they can, only, be obtained, these goods are not supplied to peddlers at y price. -378-1y

TIME.
Go to COLEMAN'S and get the correct time, and look over his splendid stock of Gold and Silver Watches, Diamonds, and Rich Jewelry, Fancy Goods, &c.

Manhood: how Lost, how Restored.
Just published, a new edition of
Dr. CULVERWELL'S Celebrated Essay on the radical cure, without medicine, of Spermatorrhea, or Seminal weakness, involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, Consumption, Epilepsy and Piles, induced by self indulgence or sexual extravagance.

Price in a sealed envelope only six cents. The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years successful practice that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in England. Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, postpaid on receipt of six cents or two post stamps.

Also, Dr. Culverwell's "Marriage Guide," price 25 cents.
Address the publishers, CHAS. J. C. KLINE & CO., 137 Bowery street New York. P. O. Box 4,555. 371-1y
